Kick in Abdomen Given by Husband May Result in Her Death.

OFFICIALS WILL TAKE ANTE-MORTEM STATEMENT

Husband in Jail: He Will Be Charged With Murder if Mortality Ensues.

Mrs. Thomas Vance of South Eighth West street, between life and death at St. Mark's hospital from a terrible beating and kicking her husband gave her Thanksgiving day, while Vance is being held prisoner at the city jail, with the charge against him left open, pending developments in his wife's condition. In anticipation of her death, the County Attorney's office will probably take the wounded woman's ante-mortem statement Wednesday. In the event of her death Vance will be charged with murder.

Mrs. Vance, in statements to Deputy Sheriff Charles A. Sperry, Tuesday, made sensational and grave charges against her husband. Besides brutally beating and kicking her, she charges that he attempted to destroy her with poison.

Attempts Murder. Mrs. Vance alleged that her husband entered the room to which she was confined by her injuries, last Wednesday night, and put poison in a glass of water, from which she drank. She became deathly ill directly after drinking the water, she says.

Woman Will Die. The physician is of the opinion, although he says the woman has a chance to recover, that it will be for the County Attorney's office to take an ante-mortem statement, and Attorney William Anderson said Tuesday evening that she will be dead, anticipating her possible, and not improbable, death.

Another of Mrs. Vance's grave allegations against her husband is that he once deserted her and left her with Indians in Mexico, but she escaped.

She was so low Tuesday that she could not go into all the details of her husband's brutal treatment of her.

Mrs. Amanda E. Vance, sister of the injured woman, visited the County Attorney's office Tuesday and asked that Mrs. Vance's case be investigated closely in view of her husband's alleged crimes.

Deputy Sheriff Joseph C. Sharp sent Deputy Sheriff Sperry to the hospital to note the investigation. She made her charges against Vance to him.

Kicks Wife in Abdomen. Vance is charged with brutally assaulting Mrs. Vance at noon Thanksgiving day, because she did not up of coffee for him. He threw the cup at her, then shook and struck her until she fell to the floor. He finally kicked her in the abdomen, according to Mrs. Vance. The kick in the abdomen is likely to prove fatal.

Mrs. Vance's sister swore to the complaint upon which Vance is being held. Mrs. Clara Wunderlich, a neighbor, says that she heard Vance threaten to kill Mrs. Vance, and that she heard the woman's screams while Vance was beating her. Mrs. Vance says also that Vance has threatened to kill her, and is corroborated in this statement by her sister.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE TO BEGIN CAMPAIGN

Officers of National Organization to Attend Meeting in Salt Lake City.

With the arrival in Salt Lake of the Rev. P. A. Baker, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, and Rev. Louis S. Fuller, the State organizer, Wednesday afternoon, the first steps for launching the anti-liquor campaign in Utah will be taken. Dr. Baker and the Rev. Mr. Fuller will come here from Cheyenne, where they are now carrying on a campaign.

The first meeting in this city will be held Thursday evening in the Methodist church. The object of the meeting here is the creating of an organization which shall conduct an active campaign for the regulation and suppression of the liquor traffic and of immorality. This work has been in progress in many of the Eastern and Southern States for years, and has accomplished large results. It is proposed to accomplish changes by legislative acts, and to see that the law is enforced.

Other illegal practices are carried out. The work in many States has been accomplished by dividing them into districts and submitting the question of license or no license to each section, with the result that many of the sections voted for prohibition.

Some Men Think That it isn't necessary to give a bride anything but a wedding ring. That won't mean a great deal to her after while if she hasn't a place she can call her own, a real home with light, heat, and constant shadow of the landlady crossing the tulip path in front.

We're not joking, we mean every word of it when we say that there isn't a man who does not owe it to himself and to his family to provide a place that is their own.

We have built a lot of nice houses up on Ninth avenue in the finest part of the health belt, and we want to sell them on long time payments. They are well built, substantial, fine homes and we are willing to loan money on them. Not only that, but we are preparing to spend another hundred thousand in more homes adjoining them, an improvement which will greatly enhance their value. After you have looked at them, you can get the keys at 458 C street—come in and see us about the terms.

The plan has met with great success and is being universally adopted.

CHAUFFEURS FIRST GRAND BALL AT FULL SPEED WEDNESDAY NIGHT

To the soft, seductive strains of the official shufflers' waltz, "Ed Rather Be a Spark Plug Than an Oil Cup," the first annual ball given by the chauffeurs' Social Club, last night will be opened Wednesday night at the new dancing academy, 68 Market street.

The hall has been touchingly decorated with festoons of garlands, lamps, "punched" lanterns, bursted trees, and relics preserved by the drivers from the good, old days before Chief of Police Tom Pitt told his policemen "to warn those devil wagon drivers just twice and then bring 'em in."

DAY SEEKS COMFORT IN SPIRITUALITY

Calls Pastor of Calvary (Colored) Baptist Church to His Side.

EATS LITTLE AND SLEEP IS RESTLESS

Doomed Man Is Apparently Content, and Ready to Meet His Creator.

Albert T. Day, negro, who will be shot to death December 12 for the murder of H. H. Voss, called for spiritual advice Tuesday. Falling to glean the desired solace from the Bible, he asked that a minister be sent for. His request was immediately acceded to.

Day called for the Rev. John H. Allen, pastor of the Calvary (colored) Baptist church, to which denomination he belongs. The minister spent about twenty minutes with Day. When he left the condemned man appeared to be in better spirits and more contented than before.

Day seems to harbor no resentment toward any one over his fate, but feels that mercy should have been shown for him. He says that he is ready to go and will meet his Maker in peace.

The Rev. Mr. Allen will spend some time nearly every day with the condemned man. He will not visit him Wednesday, but will spend an hour or so with him Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Until the hour of his execution, and in that extremity, the doomed man will lean upon the Rev. Mr. Allen for spiritual comfort and courage to meet his fate.

Has No Appetite. Day, although he is being supplied with choice food from the warden's own kitchen, is not eating heartily. He sleeps restlessly. He cannot sleep Monday night and awoke at 4 o'clock Tuesday morning to smoke. He wakes every most of his waking hours talking to his guards and reading the Bible.

The death watch is composed of W. E. Davis, John Bailey and William R. Hill. Davis has the watch from 3 a. m. till 1 p. m., Bailey from 1 p. m. until midnight, and Hill from midnight till 3 a. m. The room belongs to the old guard in the prison and were picked for that reason.

Day joined the Baptist church in Texas while working as a cookman and Pullman porter. He affiliated to some extent with the Calvary Baptist church here.

PEERY IS DYING AT LOS ANGELES HOTEL

Family Summoned to Bedside and the End Is Expected Hourly.

DEMOCRATIC MEMBER NATIONAL COMMITTEE

Successful Mining Man Who Was Also Well Known in Politics.

David H. Peery, Democratic national committeeman from Utah, is dying at Los Angeles. Mr. Peery left Salt Lake City for Southern California about November 1 to restore his failing health, his decline having been attributed to Bright's disease. A special dispatch to The Tribune from Los Angeles Tuesday night gave the following report of his condition:

"D. H. Peery's death is a matter of only a few days at most, perhaps only a few hours."

of a few hours. He is suffering from acute Bright's disease and it was not until today that those who are attending him would admit that the end is so near. With him at his side of rooms in the Hotel Lankersheim are his brother, Mrs. D. H. Peery, his brother, Horace E. Peery, and R. G. Wilson. His physicians are endeavoring to keep him alive and conscious until the arrival of his sister, Mrs. Charles Richards, who will arrive on the Los Angeles Limited tomorrow.

Makes Brave Fight. "A brave fight with death has Mr. Peery made, but it is now known that it was a hopeless battle from the beginning. Today he suddenly came to the realization that his hours were numbered and he decided that a number of telegrams be sent to friends in various parts of the country bidding them farewell. Responses were received from a number of these telegrams and Mr. Peery asked that they read them to him."

Later he repeated the request and during the reading he relapsed into unconsciousness.

Until last week Mr. Peery was able to ride along with the Navy on his private yacht, the "Navy," which he had contracted a cold which caused a relapse. Dr. Fred D. Bickford, of Salt Lake, who was in San Francisco, was summoned to this city and either Dr. Bickford or Dr. Charles Justice has been in constant attendance at the bedside of the patient.

Later tonight the patient suffered a sharp sinking spell and it was necessary to apply powerful stimulants.

Active in Mining

Mr. Peery is the son of David H. Peery, one of the early pioneers, and was born at Ogden, where nearly all his relatives live. His father was David H. Peery, president of Weber stake, who died a rich man. A large portion of the estate fell to David H. Peery, and he has been active in mining operations for many years.

For the last ten years he has made Salt Lake City his home, where he was prominent on the mining exchange. He maintained a suite in the Navy building on First South street, which had been his bachelor home for several years.

Several months ago he began to fail and since his disease was diagnosed his friends have known that his end was near. He was regarded as a generous, genial man of the town and of recognized political capacity.

MEANDERS AROUND WORLD ON A WAGER

Fought With Japs in Korea During War With Russia.

Francis Emanuel Kivakas, the Finlander who is trampolining around the world on a bet, reached Salt Lake Tuesday, and obtained Chief of Police Tom Pitt's signature in accordance with the terms of his wager, which require that he procure the signatures of the police chief and Mayor of each city he visits.

The "globe trotter" carried on his left shoulder a single-barreled shotgun, and at his side a revolver of large caliber. On his back was a pouch containing a collection of letters from all parts of the world. The letters bear the signatures of emperors, kings, cardinals—in fact, of all classes of rulers of mankind. One bears the signature of President Theodore Roosevelt. Kivakas was begrimed with dust.

Kivakas's wager is that he can walk around the world in five years. He has been walking three years, starting from San Francisco, and promises to complete his trip before the time stipulated in the wager being westward bound now. He was "oiled," of course, to take passage on steamers across the ocean.

Travels as a Pauper. One of the stipulations of the wager is that Kivakas was to start without a cent of money and must not beg, borrow or steal. He carries the shotgun to kill game to feed upon.

The wager originated in Finland. A wealthy man bet that Kivakas could not make the trip in five years, and another Finlander, equally as wealthy, wagered that he could. Kivakas is to receive 100,000 marks (about $1,000,000) if he succeeds, and $5000 in money for making the trip.

While in Korea he became entangled in the Russo-Japanese war and fought a wide war with the Japs. He has visited Italy, France, Germany, England, Arabia, Spain and many other foreign countries of unpronounceable names. Kivakas estimates that in his wanderings he has traveled more than 50,000 miles, twice the circumference of the globe.

Kivakas says he has become so hardened that walking does not tire him. He has journeyed all the way from the coast without riding a horse. He will remain here about two days. When Kivakas reaches San Francisco he will have completed his journey, and will return to Finland to claim his money.

State Auditor J. A. Edwards has given an official opinion as to what point the "knee joint" of a coyote really is. There has been considerable controversy over the matter since the new law went into effect, and A. A. Neff, clerk of Grand county, recently asked for an expert opinion. Mr. Edwards's reply was as follows:

I am in receipt of your letter of the 18th inst., in which you seek advice with reference to the law which relates to animals upon which bounty is paid, and in answer thereto I beg to state that it is my opinion, and I believe it to be the intent of the members of the legislature, that the knee joint shall be the second joint above the foot.

JUVENILE COURT IS SPONSOR FOR FAMILY

Father of Seven Admits That Offspring Are Being Given Comfort.

John Kooyman, a well-known character, was before the juvenile court Tuesday on behalf of his children, who are being cared for by the juvenile court. Kooyman admitted that the court was caring for the children better than he is able to do, but pleaded that they be not sent to the State Industrial school, if they were to be taken from him, he said, he preferred that they be sent to an orphanage. Mary Kooyman, aged 7 years, was before the court on the charge of stealing a pair of rubbers, valued at 60 cents, and Harry, aged 9, and Rudolph, aged 5, also appeared. The other members of the family are: Mabel, aged 18; Alice, aged 17; Peter, aged 2; and George, aged 9 months. No action was taken by the court, the entire matter going over until next Tuesday. The lambent flames of optimism have been sent by the enthusiastic advocates of the new faith from coast to coast, and now burn at some shrine in every city of any significance in the United States. ## Expresses Belief That Strike Agency Will End When Hoarding Ceases.

Former Senator William A. Clark, accompanied by his son, W. Clark, Jr., Mrs. W. A. Clark, Jr., and H. Anderson, private secretary to the multi-millionaire, arrived in Salt Lake 11 o'clock Tuesday night on a special train over the Salt Lake Route.

Former Senator Thomas Kearns, Salt Lake, with David Keith and R. Wells, general manager of the Salt Lake Route, came in from St. John with Senator Clark, the party having gone early Tuesday afternoon to meet the special train.

Sensor Clark was exhausted when he stepped out of the train at the special Short Line station and absolutely refused to see any one. Half a dozen men and acquaintances were waiting to see him, but had to content themselves with a glance at the big man as he hurried into the observation end of his private car to give the instructions to the secretary before retiring.

Mr. Anderson immediately threatened to send the door of the private car open to the public, but Senator Clark, who is a powerful man with a glance at the big man as he hurried into the observation end of his private car to give the instructions to the secretary before retiring.

On Inspection Trip

Sensor Clark is on an inspection trip. Leaving Los Angeles last Friday, he covered practically every mile of the Salt Lake Route and its various new branches, including the Las Vegas & Tonopah road. Tuesday was spent largely in inspecting the route at that place and looking over the country in the vicinity.

Before leaving Los Angeles Friday, Senator Clark declared emphatically as soon as people stop hoarding their cash and give the banks their money, the present strike will be greatly alleviated. "The copper properties," he declared, "are not hoarding their cash because the price of copper is too low, but because they want to get it out of the ground and sell it at a profit."

The big man had a touch of the trip that beset ordinary travelers before he left for the inspection trip. He was on time last night and about 9:30 p.m. he stepped into Salt Lake with a broken leg. An hour's delay in the train, Senator and his party waited at Gardiner. His big engine was taken off at Seem. Clark and General Manager Hanchett pulled the distinguished party down to the depot.

Apartment had been engaged for the Senator at the Knutsford, but he decided to leave his car, saying he was too tired.
